1. The harbor of Sassnitz is a prohibited area and only accessible to holders of special permits. The only exception is the personnel of the railroad service because several railroad offices and a canteen for the railroad employees are located within the harbor zone. A small guard-house with a sentry is located near the Alte Fischhalle (Old Fishing Hall) at the entrance to the harbor. A second small guard-house, also permanently guarded by a sentry, is at the west end of the bridge which crosses the tracks and leads to the harbor railroad station. The berths of the Soviet naval vessels and the Sea Police vessels also are guarded by sentries.
2. Some small flat huts and an antenna mast, about 6 meters high, are located on the west side of Hafenstrasse in a site surrounded by a wooden fence. The antenna mast carried a kind of square-shaped frame antenna at the masthead. This installation is a Soviet naval radio station.
3. The building project of the "Seemannsheim" (Sailors' Home) at the corner of Bahnhofstrasse and Hauptstrasse was roughly finished. It is a three-story building and 40 to 50 meters long. It faces in the direction of the railroad station Sassnitz-Stadt.
4. A total of five filling points used for fueling fishing vessels are located close to the pier between the Neue Fischhalle and the tower of the social building. The fuel is contained in a fuel tank located at the northeast end of the railroad tracks in the harbor zone.
